

Inside Trade: European Union

Join New Zealand exporters and leading officials to gain relevant and pragmatic trade insights direct from Charlie McCreevy, European Commissioner for the Internal Market and Services.

Commissioner McCreevy will discuss the European Union as a single marketplace and the opportunities for New Zealand trade.

Responsibility for an efficient internal market and services has seen Commissioner McCreevy work vigorously towards ever greater market integration within Europe, pursuing a number of regulatory and supervisory reforms, most recently in the context of the global financial crisis.

This essential seminar is an invaluable opportunity to build more effective business to business dealings between New Zealand and the European Union. It will also allow you to build deeper and more successful connections within our trade community.

Also on hand at the seminar will be other European Commission officials to answer your trade questions.

New Zealand and Europe's leading political and business figures understand the importance of trade between our regions. Both share a vision for trade vitality and economic growth - presenting an exciting platform for discussion. Register now to secure your place.
